LA FOLLETTE

No man constituted as was Fighting Bob La Follette could have gone through a political career unscarred. By nature a progressive, he sought always for swifter methods of reforming a sorry world and in his search, rubbed against the hard rocks of conservatism, just as a water-borne boulder will wear its way down a steep and rocky gorge, giving up some of its substance and at the same time eroding a path.

In time the succession of moving boulders digs a Grand Canyon. So, with the forwardvisioned men. They gradually accomplish, never as fast as they want to but by such degrees as their capacities and their times will allow.

Senator La Follette has had the happiness of seeing the policies he early advocated come into repute and establish themselves. But because he was an inexhaustible producer of new theories he never was satisfied. And it is the man who never reaches satiety who wipes the world forward.

In the course of his battles for what he considered the proper rate of progress for this country, Senator La Follette has given and received rude buffets. In his program there was no item of surrender or recession. He used some methods of which many of us have never approved. His blows at constituted theories of government were like the chopping strokes of a woodsman, hewing from his path the stately trees of a forest. It would be inevitable that someone should cry out against his hacking and bid him "spare that tree," and upon discovering that no beseeching could turn the man from his course, resort to sterner repressive measures.

So, it has been with Bob La Follette. He has jarred our sensibilities, aroused us to ire, inspired us with discomfort about the future meddled with our settled methods and let chips fall where they might. And in return, the country has hit out at him. It lashed him during the war. It has tried ignoring him in order to reduce his political stature. But it has never made him quail.

Doubtless the strenuous battle of 1924 and the disappointments and discouragements of a man apparently told sharply by his people that they want none of his idealism and don't like his methods, had something to do with undermining the physique and bringing on death.

In his passing, the country can pay a tribute to him. It can forgive his steadfast determination even in a course not yet liked by the bulk of us; it can overlook his appeals from the ruling of the court of the majority.

THE STATE AND THE UNION

It is not the least useful suggestion that we have heard lately that the United States and the states get together on several matters of increasing importance relative to their joint operation. Senator Smoot has suggested a conference on taxation.

From many sources come complaints about the overlapping of authority and the growing friction between the states and the federal government. Enforcement of some of the laws needs co-ordinating.

The framework of the union presents some anomalies which it would be well to eliminate. Nowhere in history has there been such a relationship and such a strange division of labor and responsibility as there is in this commonwealth. The solution should comprehend not only the operation and co-operation of the two forms of government, but should wisely provide for the building up of strength where it is needed. As a result of strong centralized control of affairs during the war, many state tasks have been neglected or thrown upon the government with a consequent relaxation of powers to do and will to achieve in local government. Handling of problems is like lifting weights, and builds up the moral as well as the mental muscle. In places where the states should be strong they are often found to be weak. Their tissues have softened due to less use or disuse. Tonic and exercise are needed.

In a general housecleaning, much rubbish might be disposed of. Outworn bureaus could profitably be extinguished. Methods of allotting representation to the people could be revised with great benefit. Even within the states this is true, and if it would help to any extent to have all these problems lumped and considered with a sort of campaign fervor, perhaps the local jealousies and greeds for power and privilege might be overcome by the spirit of emulation which should sweep the land.

If America is going to have a day of national defense, why not have a national debt paying day, too?

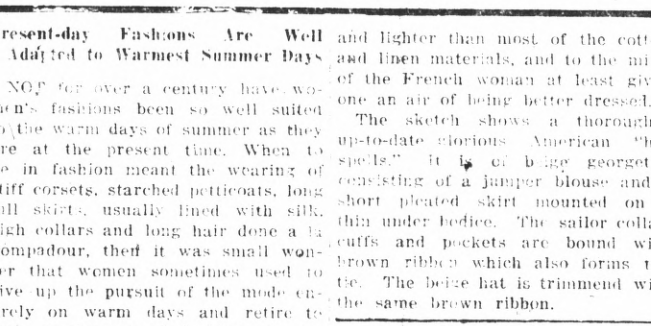

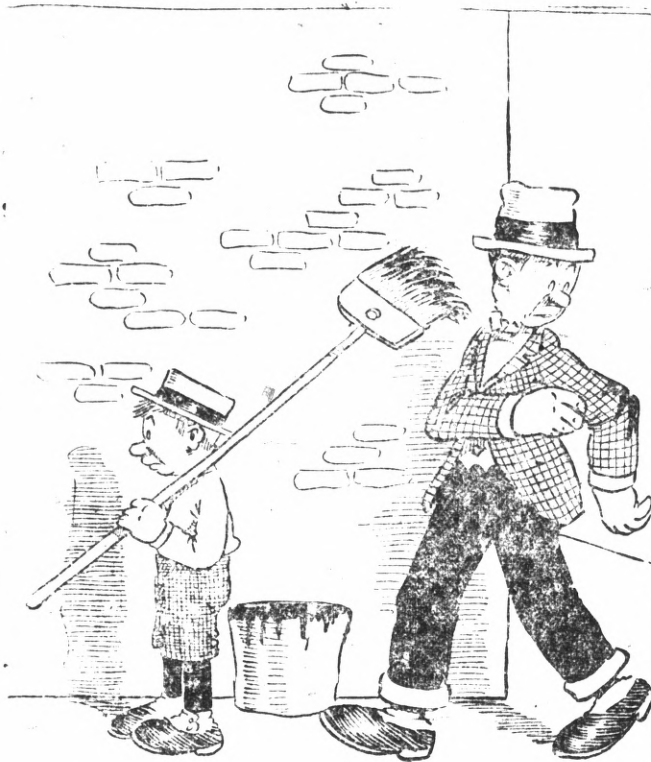

THE ARMS CONFERENCE

Congratulations are in order for the nations which participated in the arms control conference. Far less than the necessary was accomplished. More was done to inform the world of the things its component nations are thinking about than in any previous conference.

Possibly the contribution of most value this meeting has made lies in the fact rather than in the specific agreements of the signing parties.

W. G. McAdoo is already stirring around preliminary to 1928, which shows that it takes more than a little old New York convention to discourage him.

Present-day Fashions Are Well Adapted to Warmest Summer Days

NOT for over a century have women's fashions been so well suited to the warm days of summer as they are at the present time. When to be in fashion meant the wearing of stiff corsets, starched petticoats, long full skirts, usually lined with silk, high collars and long hair done a la Pompadour, then it was small wonder that women sometimes used to give up the pursuit of the mode entirely on warm days and retire to their equipment of fashion, to remain there invisible until the thermometer dropped.

Now dressmakers make special alterations to make the fashions of today lighter than most of the cotton and linen materials, and to the mind of the French woman at least give one an air of being better dressed.

The sketch shows a thoroughly up-to-date, glorious American "hot spots." It is of long georgette, consisting of a jumper blouse and a short pleated skirt mounted on a thin under bodice. The sailor collar, cuffs and pockets are bound with brown ribbon which also forms the tie. The beige hat is trimmed with the same brown ribbon.

allowance for very warm days in summer. Underthings are reduced to a minimum of weight and complexity. Stockings are of the sheerest and shoes even in winter are feather light. Skirts are short with fullness added only for the sake of giving greater freedom. To be sure, the tendency is in favor of long or longer sleeves, but fortunately we have valiantly withstood the efforts of the dressmakers to bring back high collars for day wear.

Some women never like to face really warm weather save in cotton or linen. This is characteristic of many American women. Georgette has much to recommend it, however, and so has chiffon. It is thinner and lighter than most of the cotton and linen materials, and to the mind of the French woman at least give one an air of being better dressed.

CHAPTER XIII

And this at last was Leo's husband. This was the man of whom the merest thought brought torture unparelleled during lonely months in Africa. This was the master hand from whose hold Leo's heart could never free itself, chase her spirit never so intolerantly.

Val found himself confronted by a thin figure several inches shorter than himself. But he was not conscious of height or build. He was conscious of force—a force he could not remember feeling so intensely before in any man. And, conscious of this force, he thought of Leo . . . and he understood.

For what might have been moments or minutes or hours, the two men faced each other. And Harry, too, in a flash of revelation, realized force—a very different, intangible force . . . one that he had come to fear as he never before had feared any thing or person.

The horizontal lines formed deep furrows on his brow; the lips, half-revealed by his small moustache, looked cruelly grim; but his cheeks were gray and bloodless. Val became aware at last that he was meeting what Leo graphically called "pieces of steel."

Leo's words held an unusual note of entreaty. Val was gazing at a picture on the opposite wall, with eyes that saw apparently something far beyond. Harry glanced up wonderingly.

"She loves you," he muttered.

"She confessed it."

Val uttered a dreary little laugh.

"Not the love of a woman . . ."

"Go on . . . go on." The muffled words held an unusual note of entreaty.

Harry, with a gesture of infinite contempt, had laid his hand again on the door-handle as if about to end this mad scene. Val shot forward and threw his arm across the door.

"You shall listen! For two days I have been chasing you to make you understand the truth. . . . You shall hear it. . . . Your wife is in her old room in Kensington. She is not with me! She has been there . . . waiting for you since . . . since Monday. There's plenty of proof, if you won't believe me."

"Monday . . . since . . ."

Harry fell back, and again Val caught a glimpse behind the mask. He hurried on, not giving the adversary without nor the devil within time to collect themselves.

"I came here Tuesday to find you . . . to send you to her."

"After"—Harry flashed a look so full of suspicion that Val was almost tempted to strike him. "Are you mad? You tell me—this—after that letter on Monday? After—after—after—"

"Letter? Letter?" A harsh laugh broke from Val's lips upon perceiving the drift of the other man's mind. "You thought my letter—Oh, good heavens! You thought it was a put-up job? . . . Of course . . . of course. . . ."

"He leaned his back against the door and looked fully into Harry's eyes, and the light in his own was the light of truth. "That letter asked for you. I wrote to ask when I could see you—not her. I wished to make you understand the falsity in those damned charges. Lord! He swung away to the window and stared out at the houses opposite."

"Where is your faith? Where is your faith? You thought Leo . . . your wife . . . capable of plotting . . . Good God!"

For several tense moments no sound broke the silence of the room. Val's look also had revealed a naked soul. And it was a soul transparently clear with the clarity of truth. Harry, a man of business, alert to every subterfuge, ready to meet the frequent plotting and scheming which mar the fine spirit of trade, felt all at once abashed. He sank into a chair by the table, gripping his head as if to force down the throbbing pulses that blurred his usually lucid mind. Val presently looked round, his own face full of withering contempt which vanished at sight of the bowed shoulders. The heated words on his lips remained unuttered. He came to the table and sat down on the edge.

"Whatever action you mean to take, you shall know the truth," he said insistently. "I love Leo. . . . There! I confess it. I love her. . . . Last year, when she trusted me so implicitly—when she joined me in Switzerland—I betrayed her trust. I don't think, under blessed loyalty, she had told you fully about that? Well . . . to her purity I owe my honor. She gave me back my soul untarnished. Do you understand what that means? Yet you—you—who won what I could never win . . . you thought her—"

His voice broke. "Those devils within whispered again. . . ."

"Go on . . . go on." The muffled words held an unusual note of entreaty.

"Go on . . . go on." The muffled words held an unusual note of entreaty.

Two Suicide to Escape Heat in Sacramento Park

SACRAMENTO, June 26.—Though the heat resulted in one death in Sacramento today, a cooling southerly wind struck the city late this afternoon and the hot spell which has shattered all records during the last 48 hours was declared broken by the weather bureau authorities.

The heat victim was Joseph Belmont, a cement worker, who died in a local hospital after prostration at his work.

How To Be Healthy By JOHN W. DEEMING

Here is another of the Record Herald's series of articles on health. Any questions will be answered by the author upon address to Box 5, care of this paper. Back numbers of this series may be had on request.

Exercise

Physical education has become a household word within the last few years. People seem to be more interested in the development of their bodies in this age than ever they were. The reason for this is that people are beginning to find out that you cannot get Health and Strength out of a bottle or from taking pills.

There is yet much to be done in educating people along these lines.

I had placed in my hands the other day a booklet giving the report of a well known insurance company. It showed the cause of deaths of the 267 policy holders within the last year. The cause that was second highest was HEART DISEASE. Medical authorities tell us that a portion of the increase in deaths from this cause in recent years is due to heart failure caused by hypertension which is frequently brought about through lack of proper exercise and over-eating.

The only way to strengthen the heart is to get some systematic physical exercise.

Catholic Daughters Hold Convention in San Francisco Soon

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—With supreme officers and 5,000 delegates from forty-six states in attendance, as well as representatives present from Canada, Cuba and Porto Rico, the eleventh biennial convention of the Catholic Daughters of America, will open for four days in San Francisco July 6th. California will be represented at the session by delegates and officers from twenty-seven courts of the order. Special trains from all parts of the United States will start arriving here the end of the month and continue to the opening day of the convention.

Here is another of our exercise suggestions:

HIP AND THIGH Position

Movement:

Raise the left leg forward and upward until it is at right angles to body, then lower to first position. Repeat six (6) times each leg.

Remarks:

Back Bad Today

Then Find the Cause and Correct It As Other Richmond Folks Have.

There's little rest or peace for the backache sufferer.

Days are tired and weary—Night brings no respite.

Urinary troubles, headaches, dizziness and nervousness, all tend to prevent rest or sleep.

Why continue to be so miserable? Why not use a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys?

Use Doan's Pills. Your neighbors recommend Doan's. Read this Richmond case.

Mrs. L. Marshall, 319 Twentieth St., says: "I keep Doan's Pills on hand all the time. I wouldn't use anything else for kidney complaint. I had attacks of backache and at times my kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's have always relieved me so I cannot say too much for them."

Mrs. Marshall is only one of many Richmond people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S PILLS, the same that Mrs. Marshall had—she remedy backed by home testimony. 60 cents at all dealers. CRAZED WHEN MORTGAGE FALLS DUE, KILLS EIGHT MEMBERS OF HIS FAMILY

Lloyd Russell of Hamilton, O., shot and killed eight members of his family, the only one to escape being his 19-year-old granddaughter Dorothy who ran from the house in her fright. Russell shot himself in the chest, but his recovery was expected. A mortgage due on his home is said to have been the cause of his derangement. The photograph shows Russell sitting at a table, looking downcast.

"Adventure" Story By Jack London at California Today

"Adventure," the latest Paramount cinematic thriller, which had its initial showing last night at the California theatre, has a thousand points of interest. It is because Victor Fleming, the producer, has put into this picture all those best movie elements so dear to the heart of the average film fan. To begin with, there is a cracker-jack story with a South Sea locale written by the late Jack London whose fertile brain has hatched out many a stirring action plot, of which "Adventure" is a typical example. Imagine a lone white man on one of the cannibal Solomon Islands waging a desperate single-handed battle against the rebellious native blacks, while his body is racked with black water fever. Imagine him collapsing and being saved from a fate worse than death by the timely arrival of a brave, courageous girl—who opens the way of adventure, doesn't it?

And the dramatic developments

Willis West And Company Coming Back on Sunday

Real popularity was achieved by the Willis West "Revuettes" at the California theatre last Sunday. So well liked were the players in the company that a second production, entitled "Papa's Baby," has been booked for next Sunday, and is even better than the farcical "Hello, Hawaii" which was such a tremendous hit last Sunday.

The story of "Papa's Baby" deals with two rich Americans in a French Cafe. They immediately get into difficulties and then the fun begins. There are many hilarious comedy situations which gives the clever principals full scope for their untroubled talents as comedy dispensers.

Many musical interpolations under the direction of Jean Eyal will also be a feature and include "All Alone" by Marvin Hammond and Don Smith; "Acrobatic Prince" by Marguerite Donaldson; "I had Someone Else Before I Had You" by Fontella La Pierre; "Moonlight and Roses" by Marvin Hammond and girls; "Something-Now" with Fontella La Pierre and Willis West; "Pal That I Loved" by Don Smith; "Waiting For The Moon" with Marvin Hammond, Don Smith and Meade Sigler; and living picture poses by Babette La Rue and Maxine Max.

Marvin Hammond, prima donna and Don Smith, with his lyric tenor, Fontella La Pierre, jazz songstress; Willis West and Meade Sigler, the comic pair and the youthful chorus beauties Lucille Southern, Maxine Max, Babette LaRue, Mabel Ramsden, Marguerite Donaldson and Marie Fenland, will all appear next Sunday in "Papa's Baby" the merriest show we have had the pleasure to offer this season.

From the standpoint of acting, the picture may well be set up as a model. Tom Moore has the strong role of the young plantation owner, whom fate overwhelms with a multitude of troubles; Pauline Starke gives a memorable performance as the woman soldier of fortune; Wallace Beery as usual, is a very effective villain; and Raymond Hatton proves once again that he is one of the best character actors in filmdom. The supporting players including Walter McGrail, Duke Kahanamoku, James Spencer and Noble Johnson give an excellent account of themselves in the minor parts.

"Adventure" is a photoplay you are sure to enjoy because it is a picture that lives up to its promising title!

Other features on the same program include "Ask Grandma," an "Our Gang" comedy; International News, Larry Canelo at the organ.

"Man From Texas" At The Richmond Full of Thrills

A recent example of the best of the best and excellent horsemanship of the rankers was proven when Tom Mix was rescued from a fatal accident. Miss Dalton and her father, the owner of a large ranch near Las Vegas, were taken a short cut across the Indian reservation when they were suddenly assailed by a small band of Indians, who usually peaceful tendency, had been roused to savage recklessness by a consulting quantity of moonshine, a liquor which had been smuggled into the reservation.

The thrilling manner in which she was rescued is but one of the exciting incidents in "The Man From Texas," the new photoplay to be shown at the Richmond theatre for the last time tonight.

Other screen features on the same program include the fourteenth thrilling chapter of "Haunted Valley" featuring Ruth Roland; "Felix Wins Out," a Felix, the Cat, comedy.

M. Levitt of Galbraith Post, San Francisco, as aides during the convention. All these men are medal of honor winners.

Young was awarded the medal of honor as the result of heroism displayed in the siege of Pekin, China, in 1900. Gibson received his cross for bravery in the Philippines and Levitt was cited for bravery in the World's war.

At the session the Henry M. Levitt cup was awarded to Carl Kreh Post of Vallejo for the largest gain in membership. Vallejo got the most members both from a percentage and from a numerical standpoint. The Reno post took the cup last year.

Fresno is the only city that has yet invited the Veterans of Foreign Wars to hold their convention there next year. The place of the next encampment is to be selected at this morning's session and it is more than likely that Fresno will be chosen.

GREETINGS RECEIVED.

In addition to the speakers mentioned in yesterday's program, the meeting yesterday morning was addressed by Louis Lambrecht, past department commander, who represented the commanding general of the ninth corps area.

Mother Hutchinson, past national president of the Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, extended greetings to the state council.

Felicitations were extended by Mrs. C. Goldberg, representing the War Mothers, and Mrs. Dodge, state president of the War Mothers, extended the greetings of that body.

Word was received yesterday that David J. Brady, had been appointed by General Dunn, with headquarters at Kansas City, Kansas, as the National Department Chief of Staff of the district of Nevada and California.

The morning session was devoted to the reading of reports from the department officers, after passports of the 275 delegates were taken up by H. E. Griffin, sergeant-at-arms of Honor post. The readings of felicitations from V. F. W. officials who were not able to attend the encampment, and other minor preliminaries of business were also cleared away, in preparation for the afternoon session.

The greetings of the Auxiliary to the V. F. W. as "members of your family" were extended to the veterans during the early part of the morning session by Mrs. Anna Jarvis, Mrs. Hutchinson, and Mrs. Dodge, state president of the War Mothers.

IN GOOD CONDITION.

That the Veterans of Foreign Wars of California and Nevada is now in a thriving condition, was told by Department Commander Leo Daze, in his report, which embodied a statement of his administration. Daze said that six new posts were organized during his regime, and he will be prepared to turn over to the new commander about 15 prospects. Reports have it that the national headquarters are going ahead with gratifying rapidity. Daze said, and the council of administration met 13 times during the year with all sessions attended by the department officers.

Daze is said to have been overly modest in his report, as he accomplished many things for the good of the organization that were not told in the report. Daze predicted an even more successful year to come.

REPORTS ARE READ.
W. H. Jones, past commander of Honor Post of Richmond, was highly complimented by R. M. Tolson, senior vice-commander, who in his report told that Jones had accomplished a great deal as an inspector of posts. Only three posts were found using the correct initiatory rituals, Tolson declared, and he made the recommendation that this deviation from the prescribed form be obviated.

Comrade Fulton of the national legislative committee, in his report, recommended that the recently passed boxing law be amended so that the veterans could derive the full benefit of it. Adjutant Brady wanted the next adjutant to be salaried, and devote all his time to the office.

That the department was financially sound was shown by Quartermaster C. S. Thomas, who reported that the balance of funds was $348.78 and liabilities were $67.98. The per capita tax netted $1198.62.

D. B. Schertle, who was appointed to represent General Dunn, stated that on July 19, General Dunn would be at the Fairmont hotel, and that it would be up to the department commander to prepare a big reception for him. Schertle also urged the creation of a regular state memorial service as a fitting close to future encampments.

Schertle stated that California, with a membership of 27,000 in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, had only contributed $141 toward the home for the orphans and widows of veterans. It was pointed out that this sum was far from enough.

VETERANS ENTERTAINED.

When Hall Sanders announced that the Elks clubrooms had been thrown open to the veterans, and that the cafe had been fitted to accommodate a large number of them, a great cheer went up for the local antlered order.

The delegates and visitors were taken for a tour of the Standard Oil after the adjournment of the session. Through the efforts of the Merchant's association, the chamber of commerce and private individuals, transportation was provided.

The festivities of last evening opened at 7:30 o'clock with a banquet, in the Memorial hall, and attended by approximately 500 delegates and visitors. During the course of the wonderful repast, Lud Johnson, now famous community singing leader, mounted on a chair, let his lusty tenor voice to the program of singing entitled "Sing Brother Sing, Sing, if only to drown out the other fellow."

Some charming melodies were rendered, such as "There's a Long Long Trail," "It's a Short, Short Life," "The Y. M. C. A. Went Over the Top," "Underwear," "I Wear My Pink Pajamas," "Moonlight and Roses" and loudly and lustily "Hall, Richmond, Hall."

CREDIT FOR MENU

The credit for preparing of the well thought out menu goes to James Kastele, manager of the Pacific Grill, 1524 Macdonald avenue, while the serving honors are accredited to the Auxiliaries to the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the United Spanish War Veterans. On the menu were relishes (California style), salad, roast leg of pork, sweet pickins and mashed potatoes, apple pie, ala San Joaquin, drinks.

Commander Daze, during the dinner, introduced Comrade "Bob" Robinson of the San Francisco Veterans Bureau, who was sent to Washington, to aid in pushing through several important legislative bills directly connected with the veterans. "Fighting Bob" kept the house in an uproar for the length of his alleged extemporaneous speech with revelations of his innermost secrets.

Hall Sanders, local attorney and Daze also gave talks appropriate to the occasion.

Immediately after the dinner, the ball room of Memorial hall became crowded with happy dancers, who spent an evening at fox trots, waltzes, etc. It was originally planned to have a program dance, but in view of the fact that the purpose of the entertainment was to get every one acquainted, it was decided to turn the dance into an informal affair.

RICHFIELD GAS USED ON TRIP OF STAR AUTO

LOS ANGELES, June 26. Proving that the super-power of Richfield gasoline, which has enabled it to hang up an unbroken string of victories on the professional speedways also is a record-maker when it comes to economy and mountain climbing in a stock car, Julius Dusevoir, technical engineer for the Durant interests on the Pacific Coast, has just finished an amazing trip via Star touring car.

Here is his record:
Los Angeles all the way into Yosemite in high gear under official press observation with gear lever removed.

An average of 36.91 miles to the gallon of Richfield gasoline, only 9 2-4 gallons having been used.

This high mileage made despite fact that no special effort was bent to save fuel, an average speed of 25.67 miles per hour having been maintained from Los Angeles into Camp Curry, Yosemite.

Dusevoir, who had driven the Star official entrant car in the Yosemite Economy run, making 27.96 miles per gallon under official "Three A" sanction with another gasoline decided that by making further tests he might be able to get an even higher gasoline mileage with the economical Star.

The result was, according to the Star factory engineer, that, after a number of tests, he chose Richfield "Gasoline of Power" as the finest gasoline obtainable. He filled up in Los Angeles at a Richfield service station with 11 gallons, and, with a Los Angeles newspaper representative as official observer, turned the nose of the high gear car toward the steep passes leading into Yosemite valley.

Y. M. C. A. Secretary On Inspection Trip

Arthur W. Mueller, secretary of the Richmond Y. M. C. A. will leave for a tour of the states of California, Oregon and Washington next week. It will be his purpose to investigate Y. M. C. A. work in each state and to gain suggestions for the Richmond program from a detailed investigation of the Pacific field. Mr. Mueller makes this trip every year in order to be thoroughly posted as to the latest and most important developments in the western field. He will return in two weeks.

San Francisco, June 26.—The design of a fifty cent piece authorized by Congress to commemorate California's diamond jubilee, has been approved by the Treasury department. The announcement of the approval of the design was received here today.

and a new Economy Record with Richfield!

THIS is the same stock model (top and windshield removed) which was used in the ninth Annual Los Angeles to Yosemite Economy Run May 22nd and 23rd.

In that run, where Richfield was not represented, using another well known brand of gasoline, it averaged 26.42 miles per gallon. Dusevoir chose Richfield for the necessary power and mileage after carefully testing every brand of gasoline available. His wonderful record is the answer—only 9-1/2 gallons of powerful mile-producing Richfield for the entire 360 miles of stubborn grades, sharp curves, sandy and muddy roads.

Any good gasoline can give you mileage. It is power plus mileage that makes Richfield the exclusive choice of the world's greatest drivers...men who have made accurate tests and who are experts on gasolines and oils.

RICHFIELD
"GASOLINE OF POWER"

Star-Motor Company
Richfield Oil Company
Los Angeles, California.

Bring units to use Richfield Gasoline in the present Yosemite Economy Run as all you need is a Richfield unit. The unit is a small, light, portable, and easy to use. It is a Richfield unit, even when you are in a hurry. It is a Richfield unit, even when you are in a hurry. It is a Richfield unit, even when you are in a hurry.

I congratulate you on your wonderful record. It is a record that will live in the annals of the automobile world. It is a record that will live in the annals of the automobile world. It is a record that will live in the annals of the automobile world.

Very truly yours,
Julius J. Revere

TUBERCULOSIS OVERCOME

Oakland, Calif.
April 28, 1925.

For about three years I suffered from a bad cough and sore chest. I tried many doctors, all of whom pronounced my case Tuberculosis. My spirit was examined and showed tubercular germs. As I found no improvement from treatment that I took, I decided to give the FONG WAN HERB a test, as a last resort.

After having drunk the herbs for four months, I was a well woman and had gained in weight. A year has elapsed since I began to take the FONG WAN HERB on April 16, 1924, but today I am still well and have no sign of my former complaints.

SAYS DOROTHY ELLINGSON TO GAIN FREEDOM

Dr. Joseph Catton, San Francisco psychiatrist, who was the speaker at the Rotary club luncheon yesterday, made the prophecy that "Dorothy Ellingson will eat her Christmas dinner in some San Francisco cafe."

Dr. C. L. Abbott, a personal friend of the speaker, was the chairman of the day.

He based his statement on the fact that Dorothy had once been declared insane, and that it would be hard to convict on a second, third or fourth trial. Dr. Catton also dealt with some preventatives of crime.

The work and accomplishments of the United States Chamber of Commerce, were told by Paul Clugstone, assistant manager of that organization. Interesting readings were given by Dr. Eugene Maxon, President C. C. Kratzer, is attending the international convention, so the meeting was presided over by C. S. Renwick. A welcome to visiting Rotarians and guests was given by Guy Wolf.

CITY LIBRARY RECEIVES NEW ASSISTANTS

Miss Nora McNeill, city librarian, is leaving today to attend the California State Library convention at Eureka which will be in session from Saturday until next Thursday, July 2. She will return to Richmond from the convention for a day and will then leave for the Seattle Convention of the American Library Association, July 6 to 11, which is the first Pacific coast meeting of this organization since 1915.

Miss Josephine Whitbeck, for the past four years connected with the city library at Sacramento, will fill the position of assistant librarian, made vacant this spring. Miss Whitbeck is the daughter of Mrs. Alice G. Whitebeck, Contra Costa County librarian, who was at one time in charge of the Richmond library.

Miss Maude Wood of Berkeley, who graduated from the University of California library course in May will be general assistant, taking the place of Miss Gladys Andrews, who has resigned.

Miss Helen Mackay, substitute librarian at the Richmond library, has received an appointment as librarian of the Pasadena Junior High school for the coming year. Miss Mackay is a graduate of the University of California class of '24.

Margarine Bill Held up by State Referendum Plea

SACRAMENTO, June 26.—The oleomargarine bill signed by Governor Richardson and designed to tax "oleo" manufacturers 2 cents a lb. on their product, was today held up on referendum and will not become effective on July 24 with the other measures passed by the recent Legislature. Alameda county petitions bearing 12,966 signatures today put over the referendum with a total of 54,239. The filing of 48,289 signatures with Secretary of State Jordan was required to stop operation of the measure and place it on the 1926 ballot.

WHY I CAME TO RICHMOND

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles by prominent Richmond business men giving a brief account of their business careers and reasons why they chose Richmond as the field of their business endeavors.

By ARTHUR W. MUELLER,

Secretary of the Richmond Y. M. C. A.

Upon leaving the University of Illinois in 1916, I took up Y. M. C. A. work, handling boys' work in the states of Michigan, Missouri and Illinois. In Illinois I was assistant of boys' work. In Michigan I was secretary of boys' work for the city of Saginaw. I was given charge of the boys' work in southeastern Missouri, that section of the state known as the "lead belt," and did a great deal of industrial work in that district.

From the time I entered the Y. M. C. A. field, however, I looked longingly toward the Golden State as the field of my life work. At last the opportunity was offered me to take up the boys' work in Vallejo, and I accepted. I was later called to Richmond as there was urgent need for active work in this district. During the short time that I have been here, The Y. M. C. A. work has been with enthusiasm on the part of the older folks of the community as well as the boys. We have had a full gymnasium schedule during the past year, and have an ambitious program for the future.

It is my belief that the city of Richmond has remarkable possibilities. There is no doubt as to the industrial development of this city during the next ten or twenty years. During that period of development there will be an imperative need for boys' work and the Y. M. C. A. plans to do as much of that work as it is possible for it to accomplish.

by President Coolidge. The veto was sustained by one vote.

A resolution to amend the World War Veterans act of 1924, which provides that dependents of veterans, who died in foreign countries receive less than those that died at home. It is desired that all dependents receive the same compensation, which would embody a two and one half per cent raise in compensation for dependents of those who died overseas. A resolution to correct a similar inequality in pensions for overseas and home veterans.

A resolution to separate the veterans employment department from the veterans bureau, so that disabled veterans, who have received vocational training may get help from the government until they are permanently located. No more applications for vocational training will be received after June 30, or help given to vocational students, but it is believed that his help is necessary until the veterans find positions.

A resolution to look into the matter of veterans loans on homes and farms. It is alleged that veterans have been charged, in some cases, 5 and 7 percent interest on their loans and have been required to repay in ten years. The law provides that the loans are for 20 years at five percent.

A resolution to create a new standard of rating for federal employees, particularly in the large navy yards. It was shown that in a number of cases veterans were discriminated against, in that civilians were given preference in the navy yards.

A resolution to amend the World War Veterans act of 1924, to provide for the establishment and maintenance of isolation hospitals for the treatment of veteran drug addicts by the United States Veterans bureau.

A resolution to provide that in retiring, army men be allowed certain privileges in keeping with their positions in the service. It is said that many times officers are pensioned without this consideration.

A resolution to provide federal or state medical treatment in available hospitals for veterans. It is attempted to make veterans plead pauperism before they are admitted to these hospitals for treatment. The veterans desire to put through a law providing veterans with medical treatment, regardless of their financial condition. This also includes the burial of deceased veterans.

A resolution expressing appreciation to the community and press of Richmond for their cooperation in making the encampment a success. A number of residents of the city put the rooms at the disposal of the committee, but it was found that many of them were not needed. The committee, composed of W. D. Armstrong, O. Hazlett and George Ford, announced that the generosity of the community is greatly appreciated.

GOLF SCORE IS TIED

Joe Novak, professional at the Berkeley Country club, had his record of 68 tied by John Perelli, golf expert, who is giving lessons at the W. S. McRacken sport shop on Thursday. Perelli would have beaten Novak's record if he had missed a putt at eighteenth hole. He made five birdies.
